LOCAL BANK OF MONTREAL CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Early days in the history of Wainwright are recalled by the fact that this month marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal.

The former Merchants Bank of Canada, which in 1922 was amalgamated with the Bank of Montreal, originally opened the branch on August 31st, 1908, less than two months after the town site was laid out. The office was located in a room of the Wainwright Hotel, then owned by M. L. Forster, the present mayor, through whose good offices the Bank was enabled to obtain accommodation until its own building was erected some months later on two lots purchased from the Grand Trunk Pacific Development Company.

This office served until 1911 when a greatly accelerated general development of the town followed the arrival of the steel, and the Bank, with justified faith in Wainwright and district, commenced construction of a two-story building at the corner of Main Street and Second Avenue. These premises were occupied until July, 1929, when they were destroyed in the fire which wiped out the business section of Wainwright. The Bank's present building was erected in 1930 on the same site.

It is a far cry from the time the branch opened for business. In those days there were no railway connections from Wainwright, and the incoming settlers, who chiefly engaged in ranching, were obliged to freight in their supplies from Hardisty, thirty miles distant. The district was only sparsely settled and homesteaders were arriving daily. The embryo town had a population of hardly 200 and all but a very few buildings were shacks. Later the people of Denwood, a village which had sprung up about two and a half miles east, migrated to Wainwright and this gave some impetus to the growing town. The business section grew parallel to the railroad tracks, chiefly along Second Avenue, and continued there until the fire of 1929, after which the majority of the business places rebuilt on Main Street.

Many residents will remember when Wainwright was selected by the Dominion Government in 1909 as the site of a National Buffalo Park.

Today Wainwright has a population of over 1,100 and with the substantial brick and concrete buildings erected in the past few years, commanding the lowest fire insurance rate in the province, is regarded as one of the most progressive and modern towns for its size in Western Canada.

During this growth and development the Bank has been, and continues to be, an important contributing factor.

H. G. Morison was the first manager of the branch. He, with his staff, traveled by stage to reach the settlement. He was succeeded in 1910 by S. E. James and managers who have followed include H. C. Munn, C. H. Rowe and J. Outherson. D. L. Plimpton is the present manager.

HISTORY OF PARENT BANK

Behind the Bank of Montreal as an institution, there lies a history closely interwoven with that of the Dominion of Canada. In fact, its history began fifty years before Confederation.

It was on the 23rd of June, 1817, that nine merchants of Montreal signed Articles of Association for the establishment of the "Montreal Bank." This action marked the foundation of the Bank of Montreal, which today holds the distinction of being by far the oldest institution of its kind in British North America, and one of the largest financial institutions in the beginnings of the Canadian banking system.

To realize the conditions which prevailed when the Bank first brought organized financing to the relief of that early generation of Canadian business men, it is necessary to delve deeply into the history of the country.

The only organized portions of what is now the Dominion of Canada were the Province of Upper and Lower Canada and the Maritime Provinces. Their whole population was less than 400,000, and that of Montreal, the chief trading centre, less than 20,000. The development of trade and agriculture was hampered by lack of facilities for exchange. The country was too poor to afford the luxury of a metallic circulating medium, and not only American, British and French, but also Portuguese and Spanish coins were legal tender, and the ratios of exchange into colonial money of account were subject to frequent variations. As a consequence, domestic trade was carried on principally by barter, and international trade was on a very uncertain basis.

Such were the conditions when the Bank of Montreal began business on 3rd November, 1817, in modest rented premises, with a paid-up capital of 350,000. In a very short time this institution became the focal point of the business of the colony. It provided a medium of exchange such as had hitherto been lacking, nursed along the early enterprises of the country, and straightened out the difficulties of inter-urban, interprovincial and international trading.

Everywhere as conditions have become ripe, the Bank has planted its branches for facilitating the agricultural development of the country, its manufacturing industries, and its general commerce.

Today the Bank has over five hundred and fifty branches distributed throughout Canada and Newfoundland, while its paid-up capital and reserves represent a total in excess of $75,000,000, and its assets amount to over $700,000,000. The value of the Bank to the country, however, is not to be measured so much by the amount of its capital, or by the size of its dividends, as by the security it has given to those who have trusted it, the facilities it has furnished for the exchange and the increase of commodities, and the assistance it has contributed to the development of the country.

The Branches of the Bank of Montreal are situated alike in the large business centres and in residential districts, in agricultural communities and in mining camps. Everywhere in Canada it is a factor in the life of the community. Today, notwithstanding its influential connection it is essentially a Bank of the people, a Bank where small accounts are welcome, a Bank to which all classes can come with confidence in the security of deposits entrusted to its care, and with the assurance that every facility consistent with sound banking will be extended to those who seek its services.

The Women's Institute had a very enjoyable weiner roast Sunday night at the "Willows" on the Mabey farm, the ladies and their husbands being present. A picnic lunch was served and ghost stories were told, making it a very thrilling evening. Owing to the uncertainty of the weather the attendance was small.

Baseball Team Truly A Credit To Wainwright

The boys have given Wainwright a class of baseball that any progressive town can be proud of. It has been a constant pleasure to see them demonstrate their fighting spirit and good sportsmanship and they have never failed to stage a good show against the best this district has to offer.

The team has played 43 games this season. They have won 35 and lost 8. They entered in ten tournaments, took first in five of them and second in two. They took the pennant in the Battle River League by winning all but three of the games played.

Under Bill Stuart's guidance, the boys got away to a good start but lacked support and hit a little slump in morale and in hitting. Bill straightened that out and the boys came back with the old spirit on July 1st, taking two of the three games played and only lost the third by a narrow margin. That third game showed their stuff and was one of the classiest games ever seen in Wainwright.

The tournament on July 12th again showed their metal and their rally in the seventh inning of an extra inning game proved our local boys the best aggregation of offensive and defensive players in this district.

August 9th saw the cream of the district in Wainwright. Our boys took Irma in the first game, 5 to 4. Chauvin failed to show up and Robinson won by default. Vermilion and Hughson (Continued on page two)

New Church Built At Rosedale, Alta.

With harvest in full swing and summer once more gone by, Rosedale has one new building to its credit. The construction of a very nice Community Church has just been completed by E. A. Tory and crew.

This church is located on the southwest corner of William Gilbert's land, with cemetery one mile and a half south of Rosedale Hall, the land being donated by Mr. Gilbert.

The building was erected by the monies saved over a period of time by the Ladies' Aid of the community, the men being in charge of the construction of same. Mr. John Grammigan being chairman of this committee and handling it in a very capable manner.

The new Church will be affiliated with the United Church of Canada, the Rev. Wesley Bainbridge, of Edgerton, as pastor.

OUR BASEBALL TEAM

"Tell me your company and I'll tell you who you are," this slogan may be changed to "Tell me what your sports are and I'll tell you what kind of a town you have." This is true and essentially so. It is a granted fact that a town with active sports, well organized athletics, is a good town to live in. There is great training in a game of baseball or hockey. Firstly, the idea is apparent that without co-operation a team cannot win. There must be no weak links in the line-up. So co-operation is the first lesson ground into us by sports. Secondly, it brings the best in a man out. On the field or on the ice a man's character is soon made public. If he can take his bumps and not lose his temper, always with one idea—to win—and with a knowledge that he is half defeated when his temper is gone; a second and important lesson is learned.

Surely the town is grateful to Mr. Stuart and Mr. Kirkpatrick. Their efforts have been untiring and they deserve a lot of credit.

LOTS OF ROOM

According to a Canadian Press dispatch from London Hon. W. H. Price is reported to have told a Glasgow audience last week that Canada has room for 10,000,000 additional citizens and that the next generation should see a population of 25,000,000 in this country.

These reported remarks have brought upon Mr. Price a shower of criticism in Canadian newspapers. It is foolish to talk of immigration to Canada, the critics say, when such big problems are now being faced in this country to give employment and a decent living to the present population. Further, immigration methods of the past have not brought satisfactory results, in proof of which there is held up the fact of many immigrants having to depend largely on public support and many returning voluntarily or being compulsorily returned to their countries of origin. The idea of this country having a population of 25,000,000 within a generation is held up to scorn as the sort of talk in which our politicians and others engaged in the past without a proper sense of realities.

Just whether Mr. Price conveyed the suggestion that this country should get out to attract some millions of immigrants in the near future and predicted confidently that Canada would have 15,000,000 more people within a generation is not clear. But it is unlikely. Mr. Price is just as much a realist as his critics. He knows the problems in this regard as well as they. It is more likely that he merely sought to point out that there is room in Canada for large increase of population and the desirability of its increase.

The sharp criticisms of every recent suggestion about immigration is evidence of sourness on the subject in this country. That sour feeling is due to the depressed economic conditions. Yet there can be no denying that a substantial growth of population in the future when conditions are again prosperous will be desirable. With our present population the national burden is a heavy one to carry. We have a structure capable of serving a much greater number. If there is to be substantial increase it must be largely through the influx of people from other lands.

Before we can expect a new flow of immigrants to this country, say the critics, we must show that it is a country which offers them opportunities to make a living, better opportunities than they face at home. But to question whether we can do so is to live too much in the present. Today's difficulties are not peculiar to Canada and they are not going to last indefinitely. There are years of greater development and prosperity ahead and when they arrive we will have need and opportunity for great numbers of new citizens.

NATIONAL PARKS POPULAR

The national parks of Canada are popular with tourists, says the National Revenue Review. As evidence it states that a total of 616,315 persons visited them in the fiscal year of 1931-32.

These are fairly large figures but they might be larger if Canadians were more familiar with these great recreation grounds and their attractions. We doubt, indeed, if there are many Canadians who could name all or perhaps, even half of their national parks, or if they were told the names, could state their location.

There are 18 national parks in Canada with a total area of 18,000 square miles. Seven of these are in Alberta—three of them scenic and four animal parks. There are four scenic parks in British Columbia, one each in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, one historic park in Nova Scotia and another in New Brunswick, one recreation park and two island park units in Ontario.

The largest of the parks in Jasper in Alberta with an area of 4,200 square miles. It is an immense mountain wilderness with peaks, glaciers, lakes and a big game sanctuary. Banff, second in size, has an area of 2,585 square miles. It is the best known and most popular of all parks. Third in size is Prince Albert Park in Central Saskatchewan. It is situated in a forest country and has many lakes and streams with excellent fishing. Smallest of the parks is the one at Point Pelee on Lake Erie with an area of only 6.04 square miles.

enden clashed and Vermilion went down to defeat. Ribstone was drawn against Hughenden and in a slugging match in which Hughenden used three pitchers, Ribstone lost by one run. Wainwright and Hughenden met in the play-off and it was our boys against the best the south line had to offer.

It was a hard fought game with plenty of thrills for the spectators, and when the dust settled after giving Hughenden an extra half inning, our boys had gathered in six runs and Hughenden had two.

The obstacles met and overcome by the boys in their efforts to build a team, were tremendous. They had the sympathetic support of a few but not enough and in spite of the odds against them, they came through with wonderful record. The reputation made and gone abroad is no poor advertisement for this town and it is the hope of the boys' supporters that the team may be kept intact through another season.

Good Manners

Pride, ill-humour and want of sense are the three great sources of bad manners, and without some one of these defects no one will behave himself ill.

Good manners should begin at home. We should not be one thing in the world, courteous in our demeanor polished in our conversations and actions, while in our homes ill-mannered and petulant.

Good manners is the art of making those persons at ease to whom we converse, whether at home or abroad. Among well-bred people mutual deference is affected, disguise disguised, authority concealed, attention given to each one, so matter whom they may be.

Do not think that learning, wit, genius or sprightliness are welcome everywhere, for the display of these at times is most displeasing, and makes others anything but at their ease.

How to Judge A True Friend

Be cautious with whom you associate, and never give your company or your confidence to persons of whose good principles you are not certain. No person that is an enemy of God can be a friend to man. He that has already proved himself ungrateful to the Author of every blessing, will not scruple, when it will serve his turn, to shake off a fellow-worm like himself. He may render you instrumental to his own purposes but he will never benefit you.

A bad man is a curse to others; as he is secretly, notwithstanding all his boasting and affected gaiety, a burden to himself. Shun him as you would a serpent in your path. Be not seduced by his rank, his wealth, his wit, or his influence. Think of him as already in the grave; think of him as standing before the everlasting God in judgement. This awful reality will instantly strip off all that is now so imposing, and present him in his true light, the object rather of your compassion, and of your prayers than of your wonder or imitation.—Bishop Coleridge.

More than equalling expectations, the New York-Montreal cruise of the Duchess of Bedford, set a new holiday record for special trips recently when 800 passengers took the excursion. Guaranteed a romantic moon every night, the picturesquely run down St. Lawrence, the passengers embarked steadily at the rate of three to the minute for five hours.

What cutting is now general in Manitoba and under way in the other prairie provinces, according to a recent weekly report issued by J. M. Fresh from a victory in which he carried an appeal for a Chinese sentenced to hang, to the Privy Council, ending in commutation to life imprisonment, Rev. Father Joseph S. Donovan, of Maryknoll, N. He was frankly pleased at his success in the role of priest-lawyer, but his commitment was: "We try to help where we can."

Cultural and educational relations in the Pacific will be stressed at the fifth Biennial Conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations to be held at the Banff Springs Hotel, August 14-25. Though economic problems will naturally be to the fore in the discussions, stated Miss Elizabeth Green, editor of the Institute's Journal, on her arrival aboard the Empress of Canada at Vancouver recently en route for Banff.

HOW AND WHAT TO SERVE

Since corn is almost the most important food cereal in our country it is also the typical food of Americans. Many, many years ago corn was adopted by the pioneers to keep them living through many a famine year. Sweet corn still prevails as one of summer's choicest table gifts. It is very easy to prepare. The only thing to remember is that in selecting the ear, the outer husks must be green and not wilted. The kernels should be well filled out and soft and milky. Corn is especially rich in protein. However it should not constitute a meal but should be followed by eggs and milk.

Cooked corn that is not used can be cut off the cob and used to make fritters, soup, chowder, cakes, muffins and a number of other dishes.

CORN SOUP

2 cups corn
1 slice onion
Few grains pepper
2 tbs. flour
1 cup boiling water
1 tsp. salt
2 cups milk
2 tbs. butter

Add to corn the onion and boiling water. Simmer 20 minutes. Rub through a sieve. Add mixture to two cups thin cream sauce (2 cups milk, 2 tbs. flour, 2 tbs. butter). Season 2 cups green corn pulp and serve hot.

CORN OYSTERS

2 eggs

C.N.R. Train Is Derailed In Vicinity of Kamloops

Report Firemen Injured as Locomotive Leaves Rails

Over 15 hours late, due to a derailment at Copper Creek, 23 miles west of Kamloops, B.C., the Canadian National Railway Continental Limited train, due at 7:00 p.m. Sunday, reached here at 10:15 a.m. Monday.

Officials here gave no information as to the accident, saying it had not occurred in Edmonton territory. From other sources it was learned that the train's fireman, James M. Fraser, Victoria, suffered a broken ankle when the locomotive left the rails. Derailment was caused by slides following heavy rains. Two empty coaches were twisted sideways across the tracks, while the locomotive and tender were badly damaged.—Edm. Journal.

On Tuesday, freight cars were derailed between Biggar and Saskatoon. No casualties, have been heard of. The trains had to go around by Battleford.

Those relieving at the local station are: Mr. McDonough, relieving Mr. Lane; Mr. Bligh relieving Mr. Knowles; and Mr. Bumer relieving Mr. Tolmie.
